Back on Track Workshops

Since fall 2006, Academic Advising Programs has facilitated an intervention for at-risk students. At the end of each fall term, the department identifies all first time students who end the term on academic probation as well as those at risk of being academically disqualified at the end of the spring semester.

Academic Advising Programs communicates with all students who fall into this category and works closely to assist them in overcoming challenges and barriers. As part of the intervention, students are required to attend a “Back on Track” Academic Success Workshop. Below are the Student Learning Outcomes for the intervention:

- Develop strategies for their academic success
- Understand Academic Probation and Disqualification
- Know what GPA is needed to avoid Disqualification
- Identify actions to take to overcome identified challenges & barriers
- Become familiar with advising and campus resources

Please encourage students you may be working with to register for their required “Back on Track” workshop at: http://www.csuchico.edu/aap/advising_workshops/bot.shtml. Workshops will conclude this week so we encourage students to go online today to reserve their space for a workshop.

Proven Success!

Since interventions have been implemented, Back on Track cohorts have all shown similar results:

- Reduction in disqualifications
- Increase in students reaching clear standing
- Increase in one-year persistence

AgileAdvisor – a new “e-advising” tool for campus!

Academic Advising Programs has begun use of AgileAdvisor, an e-advising tool offered by Hobsons. AgileAdvisor allows for convenient online student/advisor communication keeping track of all communication records in one place. It facilitates taking concise advising notes which will promote a sense of transparency among all advisors who may work with a student.

To learn more about this e-advising tool, please contact Kelly McGregor at kmcgregor@csuchico.edu.

We encourage faculty and academic departments to inquire about this wonderful tool!
