

Options for Supporting the CSU, Chico College of Agriculture

Give to the unrestricted fund. You might think of this as the College of Agriculture’s United Way, as money is directed toward a number of projects. This year unrestricted money will help supply new technology and fund student travel to industry conferences, seminars, and other meetings.

Give directly to Superior Ag. This organization raises funds for scholarships, student recruitment, student organization activities, and other areas. The group raises over $40,000 annually to support scholarships, recruitment efforts, and other program activities.

Give to a program you care about. Many of you have an affinity for a particular program in the college. Whether it’s ag business, plant or animal science, the University Farm, or some other area, you can designate your gift for a specific fund.

Give to an established scholarship fund. Scholarships helped many alumni reach their goals and it’s often possible to give back to the very scholarship fund that benefited you. Call Sarah DeForest for details at 530-898-3737 or e-mail her at sdeforest@csuchico.edu.

Give to the Wes and Jane Patton Student Advancement Award. Retired professor Wes “Doc” Patton and his wife Jane established this endowment to help students travel to visit graduate schools and present papers at professional meetings. He’s looking for partners to help build the endowment. Call 530-898-3737 for more information.

Start your own scholarship fund. Contact Sarah DeForest at 530-898-3737 or by e-mail at sdeforest@csuchico.edu.

Matching Gifts. Many employers will match the amount you give. Check with your personnel office for details.

Donate a product. The college can use everything from tractors to new computers, and this can be a great way to garner a tax deduction for something you don’t need. Please contact Sarah DeForest at 530-898-3737 first to make sure the item you have in mind matches our needs.

Give for the long term. Life income plans, annuities, securities, life insurance, and real estate donations are all ways to make meaningful contributions and quite possibly realize major tax advantages. Please call Sarah DeForest for more information.
