Minor in Ethics

What is Religious Studies?
The Department of Religious Studies, as an integral part of the humanities, educates students in the scholarly interpretation of religion. Through its study of the religious experiences, stories, symbols, rituals, doctrines, and institutions of human beings in different times and places, the academic study of religion makes an indispensable contribution to cultural and historical literacy.

Religious Studies is interdisciplinary by nature. Courses in the department approach the study of religion from the perspectives of history, textual studies of sacred writings, sociology, anthropology, philosophy, and other disciplines. In addition to providing an understanding of the development of the major religious traditions of the world, the study of religion through these approaches equips students to explore the complex relationship of religion to other aspects of culture. Religious Studies probes the role of religion in ethics and law, psychology, gender constructs, literature, film, and a variety of contemporary social and political issues.

The cross-cultural and historical study of religions is an integral part of education for citizenship in a pluralistic society. Respect for religious groups (or those who espouse no religious belief) is difficult to sustain without significant knowledge of those histories, beliefs, and customs of diverse peoples and religious traditions of the world.

What can I do with a Religious Studies degree?
Religious Studies prepares both majors and minors for all careers that require critical thinking, analytical skills, and the ability to reflect on questions of meaning and value in a pluralistic context. The study of religion is excellent pre-professional preparation, especially when linked with a second major, for such fields as law, teaching, counseling, social work, journalism, film studies, political science, public administration, anthropology, psychology, sociology, history, philosophy, and English. While some majors go on to graduate work in Religious Studies or related fields, others find themselves prepared for work in public service, international affairs, and not-for-profit endeavors.

Should I consider the study of a foreign language or study abroad programs?
Absolutely. You are invited to apply some classical and modern language preparation to your major program. The University offers various study abroad programs, and students interested in developing focused competence in various areas of Religious Studies are urged to consider a year abroad at one of our partner campuses.

Honors in Religious Studies
Motivated and capable students are invited to pursue honors in Religious Studies. This two-semester, 6-unit research and writing opportunity allows students to prepare an undergraduate thesis for public defense. It is excellent preparation for graduate school or any career in which writing will be important.

Internship Program
The department offers a variety of exciting opportunities for learning beyond the classroom, both domestically and internationally. Internships offer a firsthand view of the role of religion in community life, and provide valuable career development experience.

Center for Applied and Professional Ethics (CAPE)
CAPE provides the University and professional communities with resources for the study of morality and applied social and professional ethics. CAPE also provides public forums where important and controversial issues are discussed and debated. Students who wish to emphasize ethics in their program may wish to enroll in the CAPE internship and pursue a minor in Ethics jointly offered by the Departments of Religious Studies and Philosophy.

Religion and Public Education Resource Center (RPERC)
RPERC’s purpose is to foster greater understanding of the distinction between the practice of religion and the academic study of religion, and to encourage the teaching about religion in the public schools consistent with constitutional principles. The Center is non-partisan.

The Bachelor of Arts in Religious Studies

Total Course Requirements for the Bachelor's Degree: 120 units

See “Requirements for the Bachelor’s Degree” in the University Catalog for complete details on general degree requirements. A minimum of 40 units, including those required for the major, must be upper division.

A suggested Major Academic Plan (MAP) has been prepared to help students meet all graduation requirements within four years. Please request a plan from your major advisor or view it and other current advising information on the CSU, Chico Web.

General Education Requirements: 48 units

See “General Education Requirements” in the University Catalog and the Class Schedule for the most current information on General Education Requirements and course offerings. The course requirements marked below with an asterisk (*) may also be applied toward General Education.

Cultural Diversity Course Requirements: 6 units

See “Cultural Diversity” in the University Catalog. Most courses taken to satisfy these requirements may also apply to General Education.

American Institutions Requirement: 6 units

See the “American Institutions Requirement” under “Bachelor’s Degree Requirements.” This requirement is normally fulfilled by completing HIST 130 and POLS 155. Courses used to satisfy this requirement do not apply to General Education.

Literacy Requirement:

See “Mathematics and Writing Requirements” in the University Catalog. Writing proficiency in the major is a graduation requirement and may be demonstrated through satisfactory completion of a course in your major which has been designated as the Writing Proficiency (WP) course for the semester in which you take the course. Students who earn below a C– are required to repeat the course and earn a C– or better to receive WP credit. See the Class Schedule for the designated WP courses for each semester. You must pass ENGL 130 (or its equivalent) with a C– or better before you may register for a WP course.

Course Requirements for the Major: 37 units

The following courses, or their approved transfer equivalents, are required of all candidates for this degree.

Major Core Program: 13 units

RELS 499H Senior Honors Research Paper 3.0 FS WP
Prerequisites: ENGL 130 (or its equivalent) with a grade of C– or higher, RELS 480 (may be taken concurrently).

Electives Requirement:
To complete the total units required for the bachelor’s degree, select additional elective courses from the total University offerings. You should consult with an advisor regarding the selection of courses which will provide breadth to your University experience and possibly apply to a supportive second major or minor.

Grading Requirement:
All courses taken to fulfill major course requirements must be taken for a letter grade except those courses specified by the department as Credit/No Credit grading only.

Advising Requirement:
Advising is mandatory for all majors in this degree program. Consult your undergraduate advisor for specific information.

Honors in the Major
Honors in the Major is a program of independent work in your major. It involves six units of honors course work completed over two semesters. The Honors in the Major program allows you to work closely with a faculty mentor in your area of interest on an original research project. This year-long collaboration allows you to work in your field at a professional level and culminates in a public presentation of your work. Students sometimes take their projects beyond the University for submission in professional journals, presentation at conferences, or competition in shows. Such experience is valuable for graduate school and later professional life. Your honors work will be recognized at your graduation, on your permanent transcript, and on your diploma. It is often accompanied by letters of commendation from your mentor in the department or the department chair.

Some common features of Honors in the Major program are:
1. You must take 6 units of Honors in the Major course work. At least 3 of these 6 units are independent study (399H, 499H) as specified by your department. You must complete each class with a minimum grade of B.
2. You must have completed 9 units of upper-division course work or 21 overall units in your major before you can be admitted to Honors in the Major. Check the requirements for your major carefully, as there may be specific courses that must be included in these units.
3. Your cumulative GPA should be at least 3.5 or within the top 5% of majors in your department.
4. Your GPA in your major should be at least 3.5 or within the top 5% of majors in your department.
5. Most students apply for or are invited to participate in Honors in the Major during the second semester of their junior year. Then they complete the 6 units of course work over the two semesters of their senior year.
6. Your honors work culminates with a public presentation of your honors project.

While Honors in the Major is part of the Honors Program, each department administers its own program. Please contact your major department or major advisor to apply.

Topics include interpretations of suffering, moral values, assisted suicide and euthanasia, genetic technologies and human experimentation, justice and health care and HIV disease.

RELS 342H What Motivates Altruism? Honors 6.0 Fall
Prerequisites: Open only to students working on the Upper-Division Theme in Honors; must be in good standing in the Honors Program.
Is there such a thing as “altruistic” behavior, or is it the case that when we help other people it is self-interest that is lurking behind our motivations? In our society, what accounts for the imperative that we should be altruistic? This course explores answers to fundamental questions about the phenomenon of religious others by looking at several disciplinary approaches to explaining seemingly selfless conduct. This course is distinctive in asking students to address these questions theoretically and empirically. Students test the theories they study in class through fieldwork. 3.0 hours seminar, 6.0 hours activity. This is an approved General Education course. This course is also offered as PHIL 313H, and PSYC 313H.

RELS 343 Wealth, Power, and Justice 3.0 Spring
What is the proper attitude toward wealth and poverty? Do the rich have an obligation to help the poor? How should we balance a commitment to human equality and to individual liberty? How are we to determine whether a society’s distribution of wealth and power is just or unjust? What methods constitute legitimate means of achieving social change? This course explores alternative religious perspectives on these and other ethical questions that arise in connection with contemporary social, political, and economic life. This is an approved General Education course.

RELS 345 The Problem of Evil 3.0 Inquire
How are people to overcome the despair and suffering that characterizes human existence? This course examines the responses of several Western (Christianity and Judaism) and Asian (Buddhism, Taoism) religious traditions to the following sorts of issues: the nature of transcendence and self-transformation; freedom and the justification of religious experience and belief; and the overcoming of despair and/or the self as a condition of religious commitment.

RELS 346 Ethical Conflicts and Religious Values 3.0 Fa/Spr
What role does religion play in contemporary debates about ethics and morality in modern pluralistic societies? Topics may include abortion, capital punishment, assisted suicide, war and peace, environmental destruction, sex, and world hunger and poverty, as well as the conflicts between secular and religious world views. This is an approved General Education course.

RELS 347 Cross-Cultural Environmental Ethics 3.0 Fa/Spr
A cross-cultural and historical investigation of the ways that religious and secular worldviews and ethical attitudes, behaviors, and policies toward the environment. Attention is given to Biblical, Native American, Confucian, Taoist, and feminist perspectives on nature. Topics include an analysis of the modern consumer lifestyle and its impact on the environment, the value of wilderness, mainstream and radical environmentalism, and contemporary policy issues. This is an approved General Education course.

RELS 348 Jesus, Buddha, and Marx: A Study in Comparative Ethics 3.0 Fall
This course explores how Christians, Buddhists, and Marxists have sought to answer questions about the nature and goals of human life and about the methods of individual and social transformation. Attention will be given to the diversity of ethical perspectives in the traditions on such topics as the human good, the ideal society, political and economic life, war and peace, the family, the meaning of freedom, and the nature of salvation.

RELS 357 End of the World 3.0 Fa/Spr
This course introduces students to the ways in which historic and contemporary religious communities interpret catastrophes and how religious worlds explain and provide humans with tools to cope with catastrophes and with making meaning out of suffering and death. Focus is on visions of the end of the world (apocalypticism, environmental destruction), interpreting the meaning of disasters (natural, human-induced), and personal and global annihilation (epidemics, nuclear destruction). This is an approved General Education course.

RELS 358 Religion in American Public Schools 3.0 Fa/Spr
An introduction to the major world religions and an analysis of legal, intellectual, and educational issues that arise in connection with the study of religions in American public schools.

RELS 359 Religion and Film 3.0 Spring
An examination of the representation of religious concerns and meaning in modern film. Utilizing resources developed in religious traditions and in the field of religious studies, the course examines themes central to the human condition such as selfhood, religious conviction, despair, redemption, and race and ethnicity.

RELS 365 Religion and Film 3.0 Spring
A comparative study of mysticism from both historical and thematic perspectives. Major figures and traditions (including Hinduism, Buddhism, Taoism, Judaism, Christianities, and Islam) will be reviewed as well as current theoretical debates in the study of mysticism.

RELS 369 Religion and Sexuality 3.0 Fa/Spr
A cross-cultural study of the ways religious world views, institutions, and rituals shape views of human sexuality. Topics include sacred sexuality; religious asceticism; the regulation of reproductive sexuality; religious perspectives on homosexuality; the role of religion in constructing gender identity and the special ritual role of “third” genders in some cultural communities; and critiques of religious perspective on sexuality from feminist and queer communities.
