Join the Work

The Cross-Cultural Leadership Center has been blessed with many supporters since we were established in 2007. The CCLC has also seen many changes in the past sixteen years, but what remains the same is our mission to keep students respected, connected, and affirmed. You'll find information about our various Giving Day campaigns in this newsletter. If you cannot help us financially, we ask that you share our campaigns with your networks and help us get the word out about our work and the fantastic students we serve. We hope you will enable the CCLC to continue developing outstanding BIPOC student leaders.

Support CCLC Diversity Summit

Diversity Summit is a 3-day transformative retreat where we invite Chico State students committed to amplifying the voices and power of the BIPOC community. Students can explore identity, culture, and community during the Diversity Summit and gain meaningful friendships. Supporting our Giving Day campaign will help us continue to host the Diversity Summit and engage in insightful conversations. Your donation will help sponsor a student to attend the Diversity Summit and provide snacks and activity supplies.

Support Men Of Chico

We're thrilled to share that our first social event on February 28th was a resounding success! We're also excited to highlight our ongoing collaboration with Dr. Robert Jiles, who teaches the MCGS 140 class, to help enhance academic support for our Men of Color initiative. With the recent launch of Study Sessions and the dedicated efforts of our student team, we're making significant strides in providing the necessary resources for our members' academic success. Moreover, we're delighted to announce the launch of our financial literacy and resume-building sessions in March, further enriching our members' educational journey. Thank you for your unwavering support; we're empowering our students to reach new heights together.

Support Women of Excellence

Women of Excellence is a University program at CSU, Chico that aims to empower, guide, and support women of color. Each Fall, the program consists of a cohort of young women enrolled in MCGS 145: Learning from Women of Color in Leadership. The Women of Excellence cohort is comprised of committed scholars, activists, and campus leaders. Your campaign support of our program on Giving Day will help our next Women of Excellence cohort shine brighter with the gift of a Leadership Retreat!

Support NUFP Fellows

The CCLC's NASAPA Undergraduate Fellows program exists to change the landscape of student affairs and higher education by nurturing a diverse cohort of leaders to pursue graduate studies and professions in higher education. On Giving Day, we are fundraising to help us continue to send Chico State NUFP Fellows to the national NASPA conference. Your support will help us continue to give students like AJ Howard, Alfonso Ramos, and Estrella Garcia once-in-a-lifetime leadership experiences to set them firmly on a trajectory of success.
