The Dartmouth Geography Department<http://geography.dartmouth.edu/> is offering a nine-month teaching and research fellowship in Human Geography, beginning mid-September 2016. The position combines 30 hours/week of teaching assistance responsibilities in our larger human geography classes (grading, office hours, helping run in-class discussions, etc) with 10 hours/week of research assistance with one or more of our faculty. The main requirements are a bachelor's degree in Geography, excellent research skills, and an ability to work well with others. Coursework in international development, urban geography, and health geography is desirable. The position pays $17/hour and comes with benefits. It is excellent preparation for graduate school, or indeed any job that involves teaching, mentoring and research.

To apply, please send a cover letter, curriculum vitae, and names and contact information for two references by May 31, 2016 to Geography@Dartmouth.edu

Questions should be directed to Susanne Freidberg at Freidberg@Dartmouth.edu

Dartmouth is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer with a strong commitment to diversity. In that spirit, we are particularly interested in receiving applications from a broad spectrum of people, including women, persons of color, persons with disabilities, veterans or any other legally protected group.