Native American and Indigenous Studies Fellowship-
MA in Public Humanities Program at Brown University

The MA in Public Humanities Program at Brown University has a NEW fully funded fellowship in Native American and Indigenous Studies. Anyone who has a BA and wants to earn an advanced degree can apply to learn about the public presentation of Native history and concerns. Our graduates get jobs in museums, arts organizations, libraries, and other arts and cultural institutions.

This fellowship will fund tuition, health insurance, fees, and stipend for the two-year master’s program. We will have fellowships each year going forward, so we hope you’ll keep us in mind.

You can find out more about the fellowship and our program here. For information on the Native American and Indigenous Studies Initiative at Brown, click here. To ask questions, please be in touch with the Director of Graduate Studies, Robyn Schroeder -
