

Hello and welcome to the SHAC webpage!

My name is Amanda Ribbers and I am the president of the Student Health Advisory Council. SHAC is a great group of students that plays a vital role in the health related fields at CSU, Chico. As a great way to make friends, learn information, and become a strong leader, SHAC is full of opportunities for growth. The council is composed of students representing various student organizations, as well as quite a few students that are just interested in becoming more involved with the health and welfare of everyone at Chico State.

We are always looking for new members that are eager to jump in and get involved with not just Chico State, but also the community. Membership is open to all majors, and we strongly encourage you to join! Feel free to send me an email and I'll supply you with all of the information necessary to become a member of one of California State University, Chico's most vital councils.

Have a great semester!

Amanda Ribbers
