Butte County Assessor

The principal function of the assessor is to evaluate all property in the county for the purpose of taxation. Both real and certain types of personal property are assessed. Some assessable property, such as schools, churches, federal, state, and county buildings, is tax exempt. It is the assessor's responsibility to grant exemptions and to keep a record of them. During the early years of statehood, the assessor had other duties, including ex-officio superintendent of schools (1853-1855), assistance in voter registration, collection of the poll tax, and preparation of the militia rolls.

2. Assessment Rolls, Secured, 1851-1896

Record of assessment on real property for purposes of taxation. Contains names of assessee and address, date, tax rate area, parcel number, acreage, land valuation, value of improvements, exemptions, and net total assessment. The assessment rolls are prepared by the assessor who then delivers them to the clerk for review by the Board of Equalization (Board of supervisors). After adjustments by the board, the equalized rolls are delivered to the auditor who computes the amount of taxes due and sends the rolls on to the tax collector. At this point, the equalized rolls become tax rolls, are duplicated, and retained by the tax collector. The assessment rolls return to the assessor's office, though originally, and for many years after, they remained usually in the custody of the auditor. Older assessment rolls may still be found with the auditor or even the tax collector. Separate indexes.

Arranged chronologically by year and then numerically by parcel number. Prior to use of the parcel numbering system, the secondary arrangement was usually alphabetical by name of assessee.

Research Note: Source for tracing land values, property ownership, tax rate patterns and development.

3. Indexes to Assessment Rolls, Secured, 1882-1900

Indexes to records of assessment on real property. Contains name of assessee, tax rate area, parcel number, reference to map book and page number and year in rolls. An alternate system of indexing assessment rolls is to compile separate indexes by type, i.e., sites index (alphabetical by city, street/road name and number), name index (alphabetical by name of assessee), numeric index (numerical by parcel name). General indexes are arranged chronologically by year and then alphabetically by name of assessee.

5. Map Books (Plat Books), 1887-1927

Map books compiled from reports and field notes by staff of the assessor's office. Contains date of map, block and lot numbers, township and range numbers, name of city/town, name of owner, amount of holding, subdivision and street names, property boundaries, footage, and estimated value of land.

Indexes uncommon.

Arranged alphabetically by township and range numbers.

Research Note: Similar in content to recorder's map books, these records are a source of study of land development and ownership, urbanization, and property values.

Butte County Clerk

Records of the Board of Supervisors

The board of supervisors is the legislative and executive body of the county. Board members, totaling five, are elected by voters from the district that the member represents (except in San Francisco). The supervisors, acting as the corporate authority of the county, have the power to sue and be sued, to purchase and dispose of land, to make contracts, to deal with claims made upon the county, and to perform all executive duties in county government. In addition, the board has authority over the conduct of county officials, the enforcement of law, the expenditure of funds, the administration of education, the conduct of elections, the creation and regulation of systems for public works, health, and welfare, and the disposition of records. Wide power has been given to the board in its control over political subdivisions such as municipalities, townships, and special districts. The board works in close cooperation with the county administrator (executive, manager) in counties that have this form of government. As clerk to the board, the county clerk maintains custody of the all the records created by the supervisors.

14. Budgets, Annual (Budget Files), 1949-1960

Draft budgets and final, annual county budgets, prepared by auditor and county administrator and presented to the board of supervisors for review and approval. Contains budget totals for each office and agency, amount of funds requested and proposed, budget history information, salary ranges for county positions, and summaries of budget by fund, of estimated revenues, and of estimated fiscal requirements. Copies are usually distributed to most offices and agencies with working files maintained by the auditor and county administrator. No index.

Arranged chronologically by fiscal year.

Research Note: Source of study of variety of revenue sources, growth of county government, individual agency requests over time, patterns of administrative support for certain programs, and rising salary needs.

Superior Court, Naturalization Records

66. Certificates of Naturalization, 1850-1903

Stubs of naturalization certificates granted by district, county, or superior court and filed with clerk. Contains certificate number and name of court, date of issue, declaration of intention and petition for naturalization numbers, name, age, and residence of wife and children, name, age, and residence of holder, and date of order granting citizenship. Original certificates were given to those going through naturalization process and represented the final or “second papers” required. The federal government, through the Bureau of Immigration and Naturalization, assumed sole responsibility for keeping naturalization records in 1950. May be separately indexed in entry #70.

Arranged numerically by certificate number.

Research Note: Source of genealogical information, especially in absence of original certificate, declaration of intention, or petition for naturalization.

67. Declarations of Intention, 1850-1950

Original sworn declaration of intention to become a U. S. citizen. Contains declaration number, name of court, name, nativity, oath, address, and signature of declarant, date of filing, method of entry into U. S., country of emigration, last foreign residence, name of vessel and port of arrival, marital status, renunciation of allegiance to foreign power, and statement of intention to become citizen. Additional information is recorded on more recent forms, especially about declarants' wife, children, and personal characteristics. Declarations were completed by aliens and filed with clerk under the jurisdiction of the appropriate court (district, county, superior). After payment of fees, the alien received "first papers", the initial process in obtaining citizenship. Separate index. Arranged numerically by declaration number.

Research Note: Along with petitions for naturalization, declarations are the most important naturalization records. They provide a wealth of genealogical information as well as insights into naturalization procedures and patterns of emigration.

Public Works Department

The public works department, under the management of a director, is responsible for providing services formerly carried out independently by the road commissioner, county engineer, and county surveyor. Although recent in origin, public works departments are now common in most counties of the state. The director, in conjunction with state authorities, oversees the construction, maintenance, and improvement of all county roads, highways, bridges, sewer and water systems, and other public works, prepares accurate maps, charts, plans, specifications, and reports necessary for the work of the department, and conducts surveys to determine proper boundaries for county lands and individual claims. Many of the department's records may also be found in the offices of assessor and recorder, and the board of supervisors.

104. Reports and Studies, 1960

Reports and studies created by various sections within public works department. Includes reports and studies on flood control, water supply and irrigation, water quality, roads, construction projects, buildings, bridges, and sewage systems. Depending on type of report, contains date of report, name of compilers, title of report, and text. No index.

Recorder

The recorder is the officer charged with keeping and preserving full and accurate records relating to real and personal property, vital statistics, and other legal and administrative documents as required. The law requires that the recorder's records be open to the public and that certified copies be provided upon request. The recorder not only files records and prepares indexes to them, but also endorses the documents when received and makes notation of any apparent erasures or changes. The duties of the recorder have changed little since 1850. By the Torrens Land

Registration Act of 1897, the recorder became county registrar of land titles, but this law was repealed in 1913. In 1905, with the creation of the State Bureau of Vital Statistics, the recorder became county registrar of vital statistics. Today, the office is commonly combined with the office of county clerk. Along with the county clerk, the recorder is by far the most important custodian of historical records.

109. Declarations of Homestead (Homesteads), 1860-1919

Sheriff

One of the original county officers created by the State Constitution of 1849, the sheriff is the officer responsible for the administration of justice and the enforcement of law in the unincorporated areas of the county. As an officer of the court, the sheriff has particular duties in criminal and civil matters as regulated by statute. The sheriff provides suitable attaches to the superior court, serves required legal papers, coordinates the activities of county marshals and constables, issues warrants, cooperates with other law enforcement agencies, administers special programs for crime detection and apprehension, promotes training for staff, issues licenses for concealed weapons, and, in all but two counties, provides for prisoner custody through the operation of the county jail system. At various times from 1851 to 1868, the sheriff served as tax collector. Today, the sheriff is usually a law enforcement professional. In smaller counties, the office may be combined with that of coroner.

160. Jail Registers 1880-1885

A record of all prisoners received at and discharged from county jail. Contains date received and discharged, name, age, sex, residence, place of birth, and occupation of prisoner, offense charged, case number, sentence, name of judge, and reason for release. No separate index.

Superintendent of Schools

The superintendent of schools is an administrative agent of the state responsible for providing supervision and services to school districts within the county. An elected officer in all but three counties, the superintendent's duties, since the creation of the office in 1855, has never been merged with another office. Prior to 1855, the assessor acted as ex-officio superintendent of schools. The superintendent, acting within statutes, has control over the formation of school districts, the appointment of teachers and trustees, inspection of schools, care of school property, coordination with the board of education, control of school funds, and preparation of required reports.

165. Minutes of the Board of Education, 1874-1965

Minutes of the proceedings of the county board of education. Contains date and time of meeting, names of members present, description of actions taken, motions made, and results of votes. No index.

Arranged chronologically by date of meeting.

Research Note: Important source for study of county education system.
