

Title IX

Resource Sheet for Students

Confidentiality: Know Your Options

- University employees shall seek to honor complainant or victim requests for confidentiality. Whether - and the extent to which - a University employee may agree to maintain confidentiality depends on the employee's position and responsibilities at the University.
- Some employees are required by law to maintain confidentiality (with limited exceptions). These include physicians, psychotherapists, and professional counselors. Sexual assault and domestic violence counselors and advocates must also maintain confidentiality. Complaints reported to any of these sources must be kept confidential unless the reporter requests otherwise. Confidential reporting resources are listed on the next page.
- Generally, health practitioners are required to make a report to local law enforcement if he or she provides medical services for a physical condition to a patient/victim who he or she knows or reasonably suspects is suffering from (1) a wound or physical injury inflicted by a firearm; or (2) any wound or other physical injury inflicted upon a victim where the injury is the result of assaultive or abusive conduct (including Sexual Violence, Domestic Violence, and Dating Violence) .
- If a victim reports to local or University Police about Sexual Violence, the police are required to notify victims that their names will become a matter of public record unless confidentiality is requested. If a victim requests that his/her identity be kept confidential, his/her name will not become a matter of public record and the police will not report the victim's identity to anyone else at the University, including the Title IX Coordinator. University Police will, however, report the facts of the incident itself to the Title IX Coordinator being sure not to reveal to the Title IX Coordinator victim names/identities or compromise their own criminal investigation.
- For all other University employees, information regarding the complaint shall be shared with other University employees and law enforcement exclusively on a "need to know" basis.
 - ⇒ The University will take steps to protect student privacy from anyone not directly involved in an investigation.

CSU, Chico does not tolerate any form of discrimination or harassment. We are committed to a fair and equitable process for everyone through providing information and resources to the campus and humanizing complaint and investigation processes.
