The Financial Aid and Scholarship Office

The Financial Aid and Scholarship Office (FASO) is committed to helping eliminate the financial barriers that may interfere with achieving a university degree. Our office assists students in meeting both the direct educational costs of tuition, fees, and books at CSU, Chico, as well as personal living expenses including food, housing, and transportation. For many students and families, financial aid is available to help close the gap between resources and total costs.

Applying for Financial Aid and Scholarships

Financial aid application: To be considered for federal or state financial aid, apply by filing the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) online at http://www.fafsa.ed.gov. We recommend students apply between January 1 and March 2 for the following academic year. March 2 is the priority application date for CSU, Chico, for consideration for all available funds. We accept applications after March 2, and will award remaining funds throughout the academic year. We encourage all students, regardless of income, to submit a FAFSA. Even students, who do not qualify for need-based aid, are usually eligible for federal loans that have student-friendly terms and low interest rates, and application date does not affect loan eligibility.

University scholarship application: To be considered for a CSU, Chico Scholarship, apply online through the Financial Aid and Scholarship Office Web site. The online application is available from October 1 through December 15 each year, for all University scholarships to be awarded for the next academic year. Comprehensive information about financial aid and scholarships at CSU, Chico is on the Web at http://www.csuchico.edu/fa/.

How Financial Aid is Determined

Financial aid is determined on a need basis. The FAFSA collects household and financial information from students in order to determine the Expected Family Contribution (EFC), a measure of a family’s financial strength based on income and assets. The EFC is the main determinant of need-based aid. Financial need is the difference between what it costs to attend (COA) and what you and your family are expected to pay toward the costs (EFC).

Estimating Your Expenses

CSU, Chico has calculated standard estimated budgets for undergraduate and postbaccalaureate students, representing the costs to attend. The budget includes tuition and other fees, books, supplies, housing, food, transportation, and personal expenses. Your costs will be affected by whether you live at home and commute, or live on or near the campus. The figures in the table below represent a standard budget for a full-time student. If you have any special expenses, such as child care or ongoing medical needs, bring them to the attention of the FASO.

Types of Financial Aid

Your financial aid package may consist of a combination of different types of aid. There are four basic types:

Grants are funds that do not have to be repaid. Grants are based on need, as determined by the FAFSA.

Scholarships are also awards that do not have to be repaid. Some scholarships may have a need component. However, scholarships are generally merit-based and reward students for academic excellence, leadership, performance in the arts or athletics, and/or community service.

Loans are funds that must be repaid, usually after graduation or upon leaving school. Federal student loans have lower interest rates than most commercial loans. Your first loan requires a master promissory note and entrance counseling before it can be disbursed to you. You must complete an exit interview before you leave the University.

Work-Study provides part-time, on-campus job opportunities to financially eligible students.

Financial Aid Highlights

Federal Pell Grants are the largest federal source of free money for college. The Pell Grant is need-based, and awarded to eligible undergraduates and teacher credential candidates. Pell Grants will vary based on need and enrollment. Students apply by completing the FAFSA.

State University Grant (SUG) is awarded by CSU, Chico to financially eligible California residents. California residency is determined by the Office of Admissions. Both undergraduates and graduates may be eligible for SUG. Since funds are limited, it is important to submit a FAFSA by the March 2 priority filing date. SUG awards will vary based on enrollment. SUG may be reduced or removed if student fees are waived or paid by another source, including Cal Grants, Cal-Vet fee waivers, and other fee waivers.

The Federal Supplemental Economic Opportunity Grant (FSEOG) is available for undergraduates with exceptional financial need. Funding for this grant is very limited and is usually awarded in combination with a loan or Federal Work-Study. The California Student Aid Commission (CSAC) provides the Federal Supplemental Opportunity Program Grant (EOPG) to Native American tribes, rural schools, and urban schools (not a substitute for need-based aid). Interested high school seniors may apply to EOP online at the CSUMentor Web site at http://www.csumentor.edu/Admissionapp/eop_apply.asp. Because funding, newly admitted students receive first priority for grants. Contact the Educational Opportunity Program Office at 530-898-4028 for more information on the EOP program.

The Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA) Grant provides higher education grants to eligible undergraduates through the Office of Indian Education Programs. To qualify, students must demonstrate need through submission of a FAFSA, and membership in a federally recognized American Indian tribe. An additional application, specific to each tribe, is required. Applications have varying deadlines. Detailed information is available through the FAFSA Application Process, disbursements, and repayment, consult the FASO Web site.

Other Loans

A Federal Perkins Loan is a low-interest (5 percent) fixed rate loan for low income undergraduates and graduate students enrolled at least half-time. Unlike the Stafford loan, there are no fees, and CSU, Chico is your lender. The loan is made with government funds, and CSU, Chico contributes a share. Borrowers who are new to CSU, Chico and have fewer than 24 college units, must contact their previous school (high school or former college) to have GPA verification sent to CSAC by March 2. Authorization to disburse Cal Grants is dependent on the governor signing the annual state budget and payment being sent to the University from the California Student Aid Commission.

Subsidized loans are based solely on financial need. "Subsidized" means that the federal government pays the interest on the loan while you are in school for at least half-time and during your post-graduation six-month grace period. Subsidized loans may be awarded up to the amount of your unmet need or grade level limit, whichever is lower.

Unsubsidized loans are available for all eligible students, regardless of income or assets. "Unsubsidized" means that you must pay the interest while in school and during your six-month grace period, or request that the accrued interest be added to the loan principal. You may apply for an unsubsidized loan to replace your expected family contribution or unmet need within the grade-level limits.

PLUS Loans are available to parents and stepparents of undergraduate students, and to graduate students who may have need beyond their Stafford loan eligibility. This loan may be used as a substitute for the expected family contribution and may not exceed the total cost of attendance; minus any other aid. PLUS loans are not need-based. Parent borrower eligibility includes a credit check. If a PLUS loan is denied, contact the FASO regarding other options.

Graduates of CSU, Chico may be eligible for federal or state loan forgiveness programs, under which a part of your student debt may be forgiven (canceled) for participation in designated professions.
