Assistant Professor Position
College of Agriculture

CSU, Chico is committed to enriching the educational environment of its students. The College of Agriculture seeks candidates whose teaching, research, or service has prepared them to contribute to our campus commitment to diversity and inclusion in higher education. We now proudly hold HSI designation.

The Position: Assistant Tenure-Track Professor
Salary: Salary commensurate with education and experience.
Initial Review Date: 01/27/21; complete applications received after that date may be considered.
How to Apply: All applicants must apply online at: http://jobs.csuchico.edu/postings/6257.

Applications submitted via email or in-person to the department will not be considered.

The Position: The College of Agriculture invites applications for a tenure-track, academic year position in Agricultural Education beginning in the 2021-22 academic year. The position includes the expectation the incumbent will conduct research consistent with his or her teaching assignment. Position is contingent on funding.

Minimum Qualifications: The minimum education requirement for appointment to this position is a PhD or EdD in agricultural education or related areas such as agricultural mechanics, agricultural communications or agricultural leadership. Candidates nearing completion of the doctorate may be considered; however, all requirements for conferral of the degree must be met prior to start date. Additional requirements include the following:

- Demonstrated interest and commitment to undergraduate agricultural education
- Demonstrated commitment to access and equity in education for all students
- Excellent written and oral communication skills in the English language
- Demonstrated ability in applied agricultural education research

Preferred Qualifications:

- Experience in undergraduate agricultural education instruction
- Experience in secondary agricultural education

Responsibilities: This tenure-track position carries responsibilities in the areas of teaching, scholarship and service. The successful applicant's teaching and research programs are expected to contribute to interdisciplinary approaches to agricultural education. As a member of an integrated team, the successful applicant will provide lecture and field instruction in agricultural education and teaching methods for secondary teachers; supervise student teachers; advise undergraduate and graduate students; serve on appropriate college and university committees; participate in outreach conferences, activities, and other programs within the College of Agriculture; work closely with the local agricultural community; and may advise student organizations. Specific teaching assignments are based upon qualifications of the individual and the needs of the college.

The College: The College of Agriculture serves approximately 975 undergraduate students, leading to a Bachelor of Science in Agricultural Business, Animal Science, or Agriculture (option in Agricultural Education) and Plant and Soil Science. Additionally, the College offers a Master of Science in Agricultural Education. The hallmark of our program is an integrated, interdisciplinary curriculum that is organized without separate departments. The program is enhanced by the 800-acre university farm, more information can be found at http://www.csuchico.edu/ag/.

Closing Date: Review of applications will begin on begin January 27, 2021 and continue until the position is filled.
