Blackboard Learn

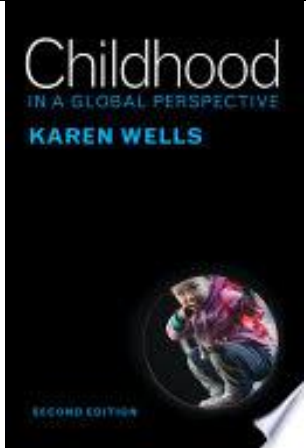

Class announcements, emails, the syllabus, class schedule, assignment instructions, Turnitin links, and readings are in Blackboard Learn. I encourage you to log in regularly through your CSU Portal <http://portal.csuchico.edu>. Or from the TLP page <http://www.csuchico.edu/tlp>

The best way to contact me is by using Class Email in Blackboard Learn. I check this regularly.

Please don't send emails through campus email because student messages typically end up in faculty junk mail and I don't want to miss your communication.

Course Prerequisites: No other child development classes are required before taking this one.

Course Description and Goals

This course is part of the Global Development Studies GE Pathway in the area of Lifelong Learning. This course will provide a global investigation of critical issues influencing the lives of children, to increase understanding of “development” in its many contexts and manifestations.

The course will examine family and societal influences on children’s development with a focus on how ideas and beliefs about childhood are shaped by cultural and societal practices and policies. Specific emphasis will be given to understand children’s vulnerability due to their age, status, gender, societal norms, and the threat of economic exploitation.

We will have opportunities to explore issues impacting the health and wellbeing of children in the U.S. and throughout the world through class discussion, small group activities, presentations, and written assignments.

Child Development Student Learning Objectives

1. Critical Thinking in Child Development

Critical thinking is a habit of mind characterized by the comprehensive exploration of issues, ideas, artifacts, and events before accepting or formulating an opinion or conclusion. Students will use higher order thinking to evaluate information regarding child development.

2. Written Communication in Child Development

Written communication is the development and expression of ideas through iterative experiences which may include mixing texts, data, and images across the curriculum. Students will effectively articulate the scientific foundations of human development using professional style guidelines.

3. Oral Communication in Child Development

Oral communication is the ability to effectively share purposeful information designed to increase knowledge, to foster understanding, or to promote change in the listeners' attitudes, beliefs, or behaviors. Students will prepare and orally present information regarding children’s development in professional contexts.

4. Information Literacy in Child Development

Information literacy includes the ability to know when there is a need for information, and to be able to identify, locate, evaluate, and effectively and responsibly use and share that information with appropriate audiences. Students will evaluate and disseminate information across contexts regarding the diversity that exists within human development.

5. Quantitative Literacy in Child Development

Quantitative literacy is a "habit of mind," competency, and comfort in working with data in order to reason and solve problems, and the ability to communicate information using words, tables, graphs, and equations. Students will analyze data as critical consumers of information regarding child development.

6. Professionalism in Child Development

Professionalism includes a multitude of behaviors that communicate respect, cultural humility, competence, and ethical behaviors. Students will demonstrate appropriate professional behavior in professional contexts.

At the end of this course, you will be able to:

- 1) Describe relevant theories and research on children's development and identify their appropriate application, strengths, and limitations.
- 2) Describe how children's lives and development (i.e., physical, cognitive, social-emotional) are influenced by cultural practices and social policies that are moderated by social class, ethnicity, and gender.
- 3) Understand more about current issues regarding diverse childhood experiences within the United States and other countries (SLO 3).
- 4) Understand how violence (family, peer, societal, and global) impacts the lives of children.
- 5) Describe risk in the lives of children and understand how relationships or environments can protect children and support resiliency.

As a General Education course, additional student learning outcomes will be addressed and assessed through class discussion, activities, and assignments (as defined by (EM 10-01:2-3).

1. Oral Communication: Students will demonstrate effective listening and speaking skills necessary to organize information and deliver it effectively to the intended audience.

Grading Policy <http://www.csuchico.edu/pres/em/2010/10-018.shtml>

Although grades are clearly important to students, I hope you will recognize the value of exposure to new information and learning experiences, which at times may be frustrating or challenging. Challenging ourselves fosters growth and increases our understanding of not just ourselves but others. Not earning full points doesn't mean you didn't benefit from your efforts put toward an assignment, exam, or course materials. Success isn't always measured by a letter grade. Try to keep each activity, assignment, exam in perspective as you review the intended meanings behind letter grades and please remember that the grades you earn do not define you as a person.

Grade	%
A	100-93	A-	92-90
B+	89-87	B	86-83	B-	82-80
C+	79-77	C	76-73	C-	72-70
D+	69-67	D	66-60	F	59 or below

All assignments are due by the start of class on their due dates.

- Students will receive credit (points) for class activities only on the days that they are scheduled to be turned in, or worked on in class unless you can provide confirmable reasons why you were unable to attend.
- Assignments are due BEFORE class begins on the given due date – anything turned in after that is considered late. Check the Class Schedule for assignment due dates.
- Written assignments will be accepted after their due dates, but will be penalized 10% per day late, up to a maximum of 50%, weekend days are counted.

How Late?	Penalty
Up to 24 hours	10%
25-48 hours	20%
49 hours +	To be determined

- Work that is copied, plagiarized, or claimed to be the student's own work but is not, will receive a ZERO for the assignment and the issue may be referred to Judicial Affairs. Please see following pages regarding academic honesty and plagiarism. <http://catalogs.uichico.edu/viewer/18/ACAREG.html>
- Make-up for exams will be allowed if students can provide a documented, legitimate reason for being unable to take the exam on the scheduled day. Arrangements must be made in advance of the exam date.

Department of Child Development Mission statement

Within the context of the broader university commitment to higher education, the Department of Child Development offers opportunities for students to engage in the purposeful acquisition and integration of child development theory, research, and practical field experience.

Specifically, the program centers on learning the foundations of child development (prenatal through adolescence); assessing children and environments (developmental needs, behavioral guidance, home, school, community); analyzing developmental contexts (including gender, ethnicity, social class, family, peers, culture); applying critical thinking skills in personal and professional settings; and influencing character and behavior.

Department of Child Development Vision Statement

Students in the Department of Child Development understand the development and environments that affect children and families. Students apply this knowledge, personally and professionally, in a variety of settings, including human services and education. Faculty facilitate students' professional development by fostering collaborative learning environments that integrate high-quality teaching, mentoring, promoting scholarly activities, guiding relevant practical experiences, and modeling leadership. Graduates of the program are knowledgeable and reflective professionals with field experience, who recognize and value the uniqueness and diversity of children and families within and across multiple contexts.

Software requirements

The University supports Microsoft Word and Power Point. You can obtain these programs for free from this link:

<https://products.office.com/en-us/student/office-in-education>

I know that students often work in Google programs; these should be converted in Microsoft Word before their submission, particularly for written assignments, to ensure that required formatting is maintained and so I can provide feedback within your assignment. I cannot open other software programs such as Mac Pages. If I can't open your files, I can't grade them.

If you experience computer problems contact the Student Computing help desk: (530) 898-Help. Please email me through class email, but they are probably better able to address technical issues you may be having.

In the Classroom

Please come on time and stay the entire class period. Coming in late and leaving early can be disruptive for other students and myself. Please keep conversations focused on the class rather than personal topics which may also distract others who are speaking or working. Let me know in advance if you will be missing class; notification, however does not necessarily constitute an excused absence.

Cell phones should not be out during class period. Please silence them before class begins.

Laptops are welcome for notetaking or to review readings during specific class activities. Laptops should not be open or used for activities that do not pertain to this class.

Incompletes

To receive an Incomplete, a student must have a "serious and compelling reason" to account for their inability to finish coursework. The University requires that a student who seeks a grade of incomplete must be passing the course at the time of the request.

Dropping and Adding

The university policies and procedures about add/drops, academic renewal, etc. can be found from the Academic Policies and Regulations site:

<http://catalog.csuchico.edu/viewer/18/ACAREGShtml>

You should be aware of the new deadlines and penalties for adding and dropping classes.

All students are required to complete their COVID-19 Vaccination Self-Certification by 8/15/2022. For additional information regarding this requirement please visit <https://www.csuchico.edu/coronavirus/vaccine-certification-student.shtml>.

Chico State may at any time require the use of an approved face covering which covers the nose and mouth in all indoor campus spaces and in order to participate in this course when in person. When face coverings are optional, they are always welcome on campus. You will be notified if face coverings are required.

Policies and requirements regarding COVID-19 are subject to change pursuant to campus, local, state and/or federal guidelines. Please note that dishonesty relating to the vaccination policy and/or your failure to comply with any COVID-19 related safety policy or mandate may result in disciplinary action against you through the office of Student Conduct, Rights and Responsibilities, which can include suspension or expulsion from the California State University system.

It is very important for students to contact the COVID-19 hotline if they become symptomatic, believe they have been exposed, or have tested positive for COVID-19. The hotline is (530) 898-2222 or covidhotline@csuchico.edu.

Check Messages and Notifications Weekly

- Within Blackboard learn check for Class Email (internal class email) before class and at least one other time, perhaps the end of the week. If I send you message I typically require an immediate response.
- Check for announcements under the Notifications Link in the top left column, prior to each class period and the end of the week.
- Class Schedule posted on the Course Content Page regularly for possible changes in topics and to be aware of assignment due dates.

Assignments and evaluation criteria

I, Preparation: Attendance, Class Participation and Discussion Board Activities

This course emphasizes student-centered learning through active class participation. In order to get the most out of this course, you must engage with the class materials (i.e., readings, videos, Ted Talks) and with other students via class activities. Research shows that writing about something increase memory retention, thus you will have many informal writing opportunities via the weekly class discussion board topics in Blackboard Learn and through in-class activities.

About 30% of your grade is comprised of these these individual, paired, and group activities. Strive to contribute to our discussion board weekly topics, but know that if you miss a few, this will not have a significant impact on your participation points. These activities are designed to foster class participation and learning, not penalize students if they are unable to participate occasionally.

Points earned for this activities will vary between 1-3 point each depending on the depth, detail, and in some cases, accuracy of the responses.

Students do NOT need to complete every activity in order to earn the total possible points in each category of participation.

A, In-class activities include taking notes on videos watched in class, completing activities related to class readings, and attendance. Makeups for missed in-class activities are typically not possible because students miss out on class discussion with classmates.

B, Discussion Board activities are another way to earn participation points in this course. About once a week a new Discussion Board topic will appear under the Discussion Board link in Blackboard Learn. Students can respond to specific questions posed for that week, or comment on class topics, readings or assignments. Questions and responses to other students can also be posted. Each post will be available only for one week, to earn participation credit students must post during the week each forum is open.

C, Weekly quizzes will open in Blackboard on Fridays at noon and remain open until the following Monday at midnight. The multiple choice questions will be based on the required readings (in the textbook and the electronic readings in BB Learn) and what we discuss in class. Each quiz is worth 5 total points. You may look at your class notes, or the readings while taking the quiz, but do NOT take the quizzes with other students or ask other students about the items on the quizzes. The quizzes are intended to help you prepare for the three in-class exams, by having you review key information from this course. Items on the exams will be very similar in format and content to the quiz items.

If you miss the time frame when the quiz is open; it cannot be made up. Quiz grades are available immediately in Blackboard and will be entered into the Grade Center. You will have two attempts, of which I will take the higher of your two scores. Two of the 11 quizzes will be dropped from your total quiz points.

D, Peer Feedback on Group Presentations. Each student can earn points by providing feedback to other students' presentations. A rubric is provided for this. Please, provide specific and professional suggestions; avoid generic comments such as "it was really good." Providing feedback will count toward your Class Participation points. You should plan on completing 5 of these. You can complete two rubrics per class session when group presentations are given.

II. Paper Assignments

The objective of these assignments is to provide an opportunity for students to demonstrate their abilities in accurately and concisely summarizing or applying information learned through readings, lectures, discussions, and activities presented in the class.

Paper One is worth 25 points; Paper Two is worth 50 points. Complete instructions for these writing assignments and grade rubrics are available under the Blackboard Learning Link called Assignment Instructions and Submission Drop boxes.

The completed papers will be turned in as electronic Word documents through the Assignments Turnitin link. This part of the class constitutes 20% of your possible grade.

III, Three Exams + Final Exam Activity

The exams address material presented in class and in the class readings (textbook chapters and other course materials). Exam dates are listed in the Class Schedule. This part of the class constitutes 40% of your possible grade.

Study guides: content specific study guides will be available prior to the exams. These are typically posted about one to two weeks before the exam date under the Exam Study Guides link of Blackboard Learn.

IV, Group Presentation

Working within small groups, students will research and present information about an important issue influencing the lives of children on a local, national, or global level. Additionally, groups will research and share information about a local community program that serve children and families; hopefully this will inspire other students to advocate or volunteer. Complete instructions are provided under the Link called Assignment Instructions and Submission Drop boxes. This part of the class constitutes 10% of your possible grade.
