Navigating RESP: Pre-Award
Tuesday, Oct. 24, 2-3 pm, ARTS 228

How can the Office of Research and Sponsored Programs (RESP) help you pursue and develop a grant proposal? Attend the workshop, “Navigating RESP: Pre-Award” to learn how RESP operates and how faculty and RESP staff can best work together for smooth sailing - from the funding search process, through proposal strategies, development and submittal, to contracting. Topics include:

- Why write a proposal?
- Costs that grants funds cover
- What the RESP development team can do for you
- Guidance and outreach services we provide
- The RESP development and contracting processes
- Tips for your best experience working with RESP
- Opportunity to ask YOUR questions!

Join us for a nice selection of afternoon refreshments and this opportunity to learn more about making grant-funded research an aspect of your career. RSVP: research@csuchico.edu, or call x5700.

BONUS! Attend the workshop and you’ll receive a special take-away: Proposal Strategies and Tactics. This easy-to-read handout is excellent advice from a University of Washington researcher whose career has been grant-funded for 30 years.
