What is the CSU, Chico School of Social Work Distributed Learning (DL) Program?

The Distributed Learning Program was created with the goal to make BSW and MSW education more accessible to geographically-isolated counties. The DL program educates and professionalizes social workers in the Northern California Chico State Service Area, who are passionate about social justice and change, and want to help support their communities.

The DL MSW program began in 2006, and in 2012 the BSW DL program was added to the CSU, Chico School of Social Work.

Social Work faculty and staff provide an abundance of student support through academic advising, internship placement, and overall program assistance.

With a thoughtfully-designed hybrid model that combines online and in-person learning, 85 students have earned their BSW and over 120 students have earned their MSW degrees through the School of Social Work Distributed Learning Program at Chico State.
